

I have to pick up Canadian Stations from New York to get entertaining programs. I am concerned that the distance required between the hot and return wires of power lines will make them unavoidable antennas that will interfere with long distance broadcast radio reception. I already have power stations like WINS blocking several frequencies.